

THE SCARLET LETTER

WINTER 2017 BOOK SALE

View from the office of The Scarlet Letter

Four adorable kittens

It's January, and in much of the western world it's bitterly cold, allowing us time to reflect upon and practice our needlework skills, and to catch up on inspirational reading and study.

I have been doing some early spring cleaning and have discovered some great books hiding in the dusty nooks of my studio, books that must find good homes, rather like the four little kittens that I recently rescued from a frigid barn (but not as cute). The prices reflect major discounts, less than my original cost, and some of the books are long since out of print. Supplies are very limited and will be sold in the order in which they are received.

All books are in excellent condition. All sales are final.

In 2017 I will be introducing some magnificent and varied new counted thread designs, from spectacular early eighteenth century needlework pictures, to German, Scottish, English and American samplers. As the base of knowledge in the world of needlework samplers and pictures continues to grow and expand, so does my curiosity, and my already extensive portfolio of designs.

All the best in the New Year,
Your friend at The Scarlet Letter and Smoke Ham Farm,

Marsha
